

Suspect 3 - Mrs Martha Hudson

Mrs Hudson, who had been visibly shocked by the death inside the house last week, has since immersed herself back in the housekeeping chores with the same familiar efficiency. It was hence difficult to get her to sit down and relate that day's events again.

"It was so horrible, I hate talking about it! Dr Black seemed like such a nice person, not like the usual perculiar visitors we get. I had just made tea when he arrived. Mr Holmes had said he'll be back soon, so I showed Dr Black up to the study and brought him some tea while he waited. Goodness knows what happened to him after that and how long he was dead in there!"

Besides being a great housekeeper and cook, Mrs Hudson is also a master baker. This is enough to put her together with many other more well-known people.
